The National Wild Turkey Federation's Wild Turkey Woodlands program is a free program that provides outreach and education materials to landowners that are interested in managing their land to include wildlife. A Wild Turkey Woodland is any private farm, forest, or ranch managed to include wildlife habitat. The property does not have to be large – any property 10 acres or larger is eligible. The Wild Turkey Woodlands Landowner Program recognizes landowners for their efforts to manage their land to include habitat enhancement for wildlife. The Program also educates landowners through our Wild Turkey Woodlands newsletter and local landowner field days. By attending this field day, you are automatically enrolled as an associate member of the program. To learn more, check out our Web site at www.nwtf.org or call 1-800-THE-NWTF.

Please mail registration form by August 17, 2004.
